*Practitioners must be registered with a paramedical association. There is no fully established Saskatchewan-based association representing osteopaths. Providers in Saskatchewan can register with an Ontario-based association that accepts providers who practice in other provinces as affiliate members.

Claims will be paid for services provided by practitioners who are registered with the Ontario Association of Osteopathic Manual Practitioners. Please check if your provider is an affiliated member.

Disclaimer: This list is subject to change . For those regulated professions, the practitioner must be a member in good standing of the regulatory body in the province in which they practice.
