

EHCP – Out-of-Country Coverage Employees and Retirees

The intent of Canada Life out-of-country (OOC) benefits is to provide coverage for unforeseen emergency treatments or sudden illness or injury which could not have been reasonably anticipated, while traveling outside of Canada for business, vacation, or education.

The plan member must be covered by their provincial government healthcare plan.

The types of expenses covered are generally the same as those which would have been covered in full by the provincial health plans, had they been incurred in the province of residence. Or when the expenses are specifically listed as covered when incurred outside of Canada.

Each provincial government provides a basic level of coverage to residents who incur medical expenses outside Canada. Canada Life's Insurance Plans are designed to supplement that coverage. Therefore, they are a secondary payer to the provincial plan.

Avoid Non-Essential Travel.

There are specific safety and security concerns that could put you at risk. You should reconsider your need to travel to the country, territory or region. If you are already in the country, territory or region, you should reconsider whether or not you really need to be there. If not, you should consider leaving while it is still safe to do so. It is up to you to decide what “Non-Essential Travel” means, based on family or business requirements, knowledge of or familiarity with a country, territory or region, and other factors.
